Quaderni of the Research Institute on Sustainable Economic Growth Series

High quality research in the field of sustainable development

The series Quaderni IRCrES is open to national and international debate on sustainability in all its meanings. This series intends to make available to the scientific community a certified and completely open access platform for in-depth studies and agile dissemination.

The series Quaderni IRCrES accepts proposals for original studies (monographs, miscellanies, editions) and proceedings of workshops, seminars or congresses organized by CNR-IRCrES, as far as these are connected with the fields of activity of the Institute. Interdisciplinary approaches on the themes of economic, social, cultural and environmental sustainability are welcomed.

Those who intend to publish with Quaderni IRCrES must submit an editorial project to the Scientific Committee of the Series at redazione@ircres.cnr.it using the appropriate form. This must briefly describe the theme/objective and provide a brief introduction to the various contributions, in the language of the text. The Scientific Committee will respond within 15 days of receiving the proposal.

Once the editorial project is approved, texts must be sent to redazione@ircres.cnr.it. They must respect the series format and comply with the criteria of the Editorial Guidelines. Before publication, contents will be blind peer reviewed.

Clarity and readability of texts as well as accurate research and analysis are held in high regard.

The accepted languages are: Italian, English and French.

Texts that do not respect the requested format will not be accepted. Any editing corrections to the texts are the responsibility of the authors.

Intellectual Property Rights and Open Access
